

United States Navy Active Duty Damage Controlman Christopher Bennett Named to the StereoVision Board of Directors With Immediate Effect

Hollywood, California 2/24/2014 (Newswire) StereoVision Entertainment Inc. (OTC:SVSN) announced today that United States Navy Damage Controlman Christopher Bennett has been named to the Stereo Vision Board of Directors with immediate effect.

“We’re very proud and happy to welcome an active duty serviceman to the StereoVision Board of Directors”, stated StereoVision’s Chairman Jack Honour. “As Chris rotates out of his active duty military service, he’ll be working with the StereoVision team in becoming familiar with the entertainment industry and the Company, while at 27 providing a youthful energy and perspective to the development of the Company’s vision going forward. The skills and disciplines Chris learned in the military will continue to be valuable assets as he becomes a driving force in the Company’s Public Relations division. Chris is also a talented composer and greatly impressed StereoVision’s principal partner, the founder and owner of the legendary Sound City Studios, Tom Skeeter, while laying down some tracks recently at Sound City, for future use in our movies. If you’d like to welcome Chris to StereoVision or have any questions for him, you’re welcome to contact him at chris@stereovision.com.”
